The Marine Management Organisation (MMO) will be the Government's strategic delivery partner in the marine area, independently reconciling conflicting demands and pressures through the introduction of a new, integrated system of marine planning and streamlined marine licensing arrangements.

The Marine Management Organisation will be formed on 1 April 2010. We will take over the functions of the Marine and Fisheries Agency and rapidly develop our new functions. We have relocated from London to Newcastle, appointed some of our Senior Leaders and staff and will move into our new premises of Lancaster House from mid February onwards. There has never been a more exciting time for the business as we approach many new challenges!

Our Board led by Chris Parry and our Strategic Leadership Team led by Steven Gant want to share their desire to play a major role in the management of our seas, especially in drawing together the natural, economic and social aspects of the marine environment. Do you share their ambition?

If you do, then we invite you to consider joining us to enhance our already outstanding knowledge of the industry as we hit the ground running from April 2010.

DECISION SUPPORT:

Our Decision Support Team comprising of Data & Knowledge Management, Interpretation and Strategic Development will provide and maintain a world-class evidence base for decision making in the marine area. Identifying and maintaining key relationships within the UK marine evidence community and positioning the MMO as a key facilitator in the provision of a national marine evidence base.

MARINE PLANNING:

Focus for the team will initially be on shaping and building a wholly new marine planning capability for England from within the MMO. This will be groundbreaking work leading to the establishment of a world-class marine planning function.

We already have many different types of leaders with diverse backgrounds, some with scientific and technical credentials, others with professional and generalist expertise. We are looking for excellent leaders and collaborators along with technical experts who can promote the business, engaging stakeholders and the communities we operate in, to work together to develop solutions and share success.

If you feel you have the knowledge, skills and ability to add value to our Team, we would like to hear from you.
